Re: NES Financial Corp. v. JPMorgan Chase Bank, N.A., No. 11-cv-3437 (S.D.N.Y.)

Dear Judge Marrero:

We write on behalf of plaintiff NES Financial Corp. ("NESF") to request authorization to bring additional laptops into the courthouse for trial in this matter, scheduled to begin on Wednesday, September 19. Your Honor previously authorized NESF counsel to bring laptops into the courtroom for trial. We now seek permission for our courtroom technician to bring equipment necessary to enable NESF to prosecute its case at trial. NESF respectfully requests that Your Honor permit Jason Rudd (or one of his colleagues) at Resonant Legal Media ("RLM") to bring two laptops and the technical equipment necessary to switch between laptops into the courtroom each day of trial.

NESF further requests that its trial team be granted access to the courtroom this afternoon at approximately 2:00 p.m. to test the audiovisual equipment in the courtroom and bring trial materials for placement on site. Attached as Exhibit A is a list of personnel and materials we request be allowed to enter the courtroom this afternoon for the purpose of that visit.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Respectfully submitted,
